

Bodega Humberto Canale Rio Negro, Argentina

HUMBERTO CANALE
Patagonia - Argentina

We are very pleased to have Marcelo Soiza representing the winery today. Bodega Humberto Canale is the most important winery in southern Argentina. Since its founding in 1913, its production philosophy has been maintained, always giving precedence to quality over quantity.

2007 Sauvignon Blanc

Delicate colour with bright yellow-greenish reflections. Intense mango, fresh melon and grapefruit aromas. Forward flavours of ripe figs, honeydew melons and nutmeg-like spices. Creamy-textured, round, and supple. Smooth on the palate, well-balanced, with a long finish.
